

RESOURCE BRIEFS

a curated list of foundational resources

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, & INCLUSION SERIES: GENDER IDENTITY

FAVORITE RESOURCES

READ Denison E, Bevan N, Jeanes R. Reviewing evidence of LGBTQ+ discrimination and exclusion in sport. Sport Management Review. 2021;24(3): 389-409.

Munson E, Ensign K. Transgender athletes' experiences with health care in the athletic training setting. Journal of Athletic Training. January 2021; 56(1): 101–111.

Woods RB, Butler BN. Excerpt from Understanding Gender Identification and Sport. In Social Issues in Sport 4th ed. Human Kinetics: Champaign, IL. 2020.

WATCH The Indigenous Doctor Helping Trans Youth. January 8, 2020. Accessed March 6, 2022. (12 minutes)
"Doctor James Makokis identifies as 'two-spirit' - a term used by and for indigenous LGBTQ+ people in North America who identify with both masculinity and femininity, and which harks back to pre-colonial third gender roles."

Where Do Gendered Pronouns Come From? August 30, 2017. Accessed March 6, 2022 (8 minutes)

PERUSE Gender Spectrum
The mission of Gender Spectrum is to create gender sensitive and inclusive environments for all children and teens.

Transathlete

A resource for students, athletes, coaches, and administrators to find centrally-located, topically-organized information about trans inclusion in athletics.

ABOUT OUR SUBJECT MATTER EXPERTS

Laurie Rivera MEd, LAT, ATC is currently a Senior Lecturer at Appalachian State University. She is the Coordinator of Clinical Education in the professional athletic training program and the Beaver College of Health Sciences Inclusive Excellence Coordinator. Laurie serves as the chair of the AATE Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion committee.

Chelsey Erbaugh Franz, PhD, ATC is an Associate Professor and Clinical Education Coordinator in the Master of Science in Athletic Training program at Bellarmine University. Her research interests include community-based health among marginalized populations, and she is also a member of the AATE Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion committee.

JOIN THE CONVERSATION

