

Foundations-to-Instruction Series:

Health Information and Healthcare Informatics

Providing essential, applicable content for instruction, assessment, and clinical practice

PROGRAM FACULTY

Kim Mace, DAT, ATC
Mass General Hospital Institute of Health Professions

Kenny Lam, PhD, ATC
AT Still University

REQUIRED MATERIALS & CONTACT HOURS

Internet access
Computer

1 contact hour (on demand)

COST

$20 AATE members
$60 non-AATE members
Group pricing available

Refund policy: Full refund available prior to accessing on-demand course materials

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Contrast commonly used terminology within healthcare informatics.
- Differentiate between the types of electronic records systems.
- Explain the stages of the data-wisdom continuum and relate them to strategies used to engage with health information data.
- Use a run chart and its associated rules to assess available health information.

SCHEDULE AND FORMAT:

- Self-paced home study; on-demand access to course materials and guiding questions to enhance foundational knowledge
- Optional opportunity for educators to participate in synchronous session for development of assessment strategies
- Program available online beginning June 1, 2023

The Association for Athletic Training Education (P12081) is approved by the Board of Certification, Inc. to offer continuing education to Certified Athletic Trainers.

Association for Athletic Training Education, Inc.
PO Box 620762
Middleton, WI 53562